

TRANSPORTATION CRISIS FACES U. S.

COTTON GOODS
FORCED UP IN ORDER OF OPAARMY OF 2,500 TO ENFORCE MEAT
CEILINGS

BY EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—OPA again boosted cotton textile prices tonight, as required by the new price law, presaging another one or two per cent rise in the cost of cotton garments to consumers.

Cotton mill prices were raised two and one-half per cent effective tomorrow in the fourth increase since March. The total price climb this year on basic fabrics is over 30 per cent.

Meanwhile the harried agency worked late to write higher livestock prices over the country, jibing with Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's ceiling recommendations—which amount to orders—of yesterday. The new ceilings will be announced tomorrow or Saturday.

Anderson recommended prices on pork $1.40 a hundred pounds higher than the June 30 ceilings at Chicago, and on beef $2.25 higher. Agriculture officials said this would mean two and a half to three cents more at retail for pork and five and one-half to six cents more for beef cuts.

Revisions Monthly
The cotton price increase resulted from the provision of the new OPA law that cotton products reflect current costs of raw cotton or parity, which ever is higher. Raw cotton prices have been rising.

Textile prices therefore must be revised monthly OPA said, with clothing prices fluctuating with them. The last increase, early this month, was 16 per cent on the average. It followed a March increase and an April 12 per cent increase to spur production of basic fabrics.

Porter asserted tonight his agency will not "bail out" dealers who have withheld lead and lead scrap from market on the "mistaken belief that ceiling prices would be raised."

He said in a statement that OPA does not plan to increase ceiling prices on scrap metal above June 30 levels in the "foreseeable future."

He reported that while OPA granted a "substantial increase" in lead prices June 2, a number of sales were made during the price holiday last month at 9.5 cents per pound as compared with the 8.25 cents a pound ceiling price.

An all out drive against black market operations in meat with an army of 2,500 enforcement agents was mapped meanwhile by OPA.

It was learned that OPA Chief Paul Porter has selected Irving Gruber, an attorney, to lead the black market drive with a force double that used under former price ceilings.

"We plan a very vigorous drive and expect to stop all violations," Gruber told a reporter. "Our aim is to keep meat prices within reach of the general public through a rigid enforcement of ceilings at all levels."

War Veterans Hired
Gruber formerly was chief of the OPA litigation section.

Field offices throughout the United States have recruited the additional meat enforcement agents, mostly from war veterans, and the time since controls expired on June 30 has been used to train these men.

"We have enough manpower to make a full-scale attack on the black market," Porter told reporters here recently, and added:

"I do not think there is any substantial basis for the assumption that recontrol automatically means

FRENCH REAP REWARDING HARVEST—Traditional thrift and love of the land have produced a near-record food crop for the hard-working French, whose children join their parents in the field to help with the harvest. This year's harvest comes at a time of crucial need for food in war shattered Europe, and will also help to offset costs of commodities boosted by black market conditions. (NEA Telephoto by Staff Photographer Al Pione.)

GANGSTERS GET
FLINT RESIDENTEx - Convict's Mutilated
Body Found On Road
Near Saginaw

Saginaw, Mich., Aug. 29 (AP)—Gangster vengeance was believed responsible for the death of Sam Ricca, 44, Flint ex-convict, whose body, pierced by four bullet wounds was found early today beside a road near Saginaw.

Identification of Ricca's badly-mutilated body was made by sheriff's officers from papers found on him.

Ricca, said by police to have a long criminal record, was released from the state prison of Southern Michigan at December. He had been serving a five to 15-year term given him in Oakland county on a robbery armed charge.

Previously, he had been sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kas., on a bootlegging charge and was convicted in Flint in 1930 for auto theft and receiving stolen property.

His most recent arrest was last week when he was questioned in the case of five men charged with fleeing Bernard Kintz, tavern owner, of $1,500. He insisted that he knew nothing about the case and was released.

Sheriff's officers found on his body a 10-year-old newspaper clipping which referred to his arrest in 1931 in connection with the slaying of two Grose Pointe policemen. No charges ever were placed against him in this case. A money order for $20 also was among his effects.

The body was found by Joseph Wines, Saginaw contractor, about 14 miles from Saginaw on U. S. 10-23.

McReynolds Buried
In Native Kentucky

Elkton, Ky., Aug. 29 (AP)—In a ceremony marked by simplicity the body of James Clark McReynolds, retired supreme court justice, was laid to rest today in the family burial plot at Glenwood cemetery.

Flags flew at half staff in this town of 1,200, where McReynolds was born 84 years ago, as the funeral procession moved along quiet, tree-lined streets from the little Christian church where funeral services were held at 2 p. m.

All business places were closed during the funeral.

The Rev. W. H. Funderburk, pastor of the church, assisted by Dr. A. J. Dickinson, Baptist minister, offered a brief scripture reading and a prayer in a service lasting less than five minutes.

Officer Who Wedded

Dies Of Paralysis

Paris, Aug. 29 (AP)—Lt. Charles R. Codman, Jr., of Boston, died in the American hospital at Neuilly of infantile paralysis today, just a month and a half after his marriage to the great-grand-niece of Napoleon.

The 24-year-old officer returned here two weeks ago from a wedding trip to Biarritz with his bride, Princess Letitia Murat, whom he married in Paris, July 16.

NOT ENOUGH SHIRTS
Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Civilian production administrator John D. Small reported tonight that 168,000,000 pairs of women's stockings and 65,000,000 men's shirts were produced in April, May and June, but—

Forty percent of the stockings were something other than nylons.

And 40,000,000 of the shirts were sports shirts.

Attendance At U.P. Fair
Increases With Arrival
Of Favorable Weather

The arrival of warmer weather brought a sharp increase in attendance yesterday at the Upper Peninsula State Fair as a crowd estimated at approximately 12,000 visited the grounds.

The concluding performance of the White Horse Troupe will be featured at the matinee today at the state fair and the colorful Avery Victory Vagades of 1946 will make its final appearance this evening. Capacity crowds are anticipated for both shows.

Today is officially Governor's Day at the U. P. fair, due to a last minute change in plans Governor Harry Kelly will not be present. The governor revised his itinerary after attending the dedication of the Isle Royal National Park this week and was forced to forego his scheduled appearances at the state planning commission meeting in Iron Mountain yesterday and the U. P. State Fair today.

Visitors at the fair during the final three days of the exposition will have an opportunity to see three complete changes of grandstand shows. Following the White Horse troupe and Victory Vagades performances today and tonight, the WLS famed barn dance troupe will take over the spotlight Saturday afternoon and evening.

The fair will be concluded Sunday with matinee and night performances by the world famed Jimmie Lynch Death Dodgers.

The final three days of the fair may establish new attendance records for the exposition as increasing numbers of out of town patrons arrive.

The work of judging and grading exhibits in the numerous departments at the fair is nearing completion and premium ribbons have been placed on prize winning entries.

Many more horses are expected to arrive today and early Saturday for the horse pulling contests that will be a feature of the Saturday morning and afternoon programs.

In addition to the contests open only to Upper Peninsula teams, there will be an open contest in both the lightweight and heavyweight classes for all horses. The lightweight division will be run off Saturday morning at ten o'clock, with the heavyweight contests Saturday afternoon at two o'clock.

Saturday also is Queen's Day at the fair and no less than 18 attractive young girls will vie for the honor of being chosen U. P. State Fair Queen.

Blast Kills Three
At Asphalt Plant
In North Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 26 (AP)—Three workers were killed this afternoon in the explosion of an acetylene torch at the big plant of the Trumbull Asphalt Co., of Delaware in North Memphis.

The explosion tore the bodies to bits, and first reports said at least five persons were killed. However, Nelson Dale, an operator at the plant, said a thorough check of time-cards had been made and indicated that only the three men—all of whom were working with the torch—were killed.

They were T. H. Wolfe, about 35; Howard Wolfe, about 16; and Henry Glece, about 50.

Dale said the three were operating the torch near an asphalt still on the plant grounds when the torch exploded.

Two hours after the explosion, parts of the bodies of the victims were still being recovered.

Janitor At Adrian
Falls To Death On
Window Wash Job

Adrian, Mich., Aug. 29 (AP)—Charles Kintner, 58, a janitor in the Adrian junior high school, fell 30 feet to his death today while he was washing second story windows of the school building.

Kintner landed on the concrete below and died 15 minutes after he was admitted to Bixby hospital.

William Welti, also a janitor at the school who was working with Kintner, said he failed to fasten his body strap while standing on a ledge outside the window.

UNION VOTES
TO CALL OFF
LAKES TIEUPSTRIKE CONTINUES
AGAINST ONLY 7
CARRIERS

Detroit, Aug. 29. (AP)—Leaders of the CIO National Maritime Union voted tonight to call off a strike against all Great Lakes ship operators except seven described as "not interested yet in reaching a satisfactory settlement."

The action, coming on the 15th day of the walkout, was taken by the strike strategy committee. Spokesmen expressed confidence that ratification by the membership would follow in meetings in all Great Lakes ports scheduled later tonight.

All strike-bound vessels except the 21 operated by the seven companies thus will be freed as of noon tomorrow, NMU strike headquarters said.

The union listed the seven carriers as Inland Steel, Nicholson, American Steel and Wire, Johnson Transportation Co., Brown and Shasta, Jupiter, and Texas Oil.

No estimate was given by the NMU as to the number of ships which will be affected by the back-to-work action. The union claims to have signed new contracts with nine companies operating 33 lake vessels, with all pacts embodying clauses reducing the standard 56-hour work week to 48 hours at sea and 44 hours in port.

Latest signed, the NMU reported, were the Interstate Steamship Co., and the International Harvester Co., in negotiations at Cleveland, and the Ford Motor Co., at a bargaining session in New York.

The NMU asserted it was "not giving up the fight for the 40-hour week," its original demand.

At the outset of the strike, an NMU spokesman pointed out, the union invited unorganized seamen to join the walkout.

"It would be unfair to penalize them by asking them to stay off their jobs any longer," he said.

The strategy committee's announcement said two factors prompted it to call off the general strike.

"The union had 'broken' the seven-day, 56-hour work week."

"The Lake Carriers Association, representing operators of 316 vessels, had recommended to its members the adoption of the shorter work week."

The strategy committee did not go into particulars for its decision to continue the strike against seven companies except for its statement on the firms' attitudes. Three of the group—Inland Steel, American Steel and Wire, and Brown and Shasta—are members of the Carriers Association.

Two settlements at Cleveland were announced by Federal Conciliator Noel Fox.

THREE MISSING
AS YACHT SINKS

Ups, Dinghy Is Found
Off South Haven By Coast Guardsmen

South Haven, Mich., Aug. 29. (AP)—The finding of an overturned dinghy late today dampened hopes for the safety of three crew members of the ill-fated yacht Verano, which sank in choppy Lake Michigan waters late Wednesday.

Chief Bosun's Mate William Herbst of the South Haven Coast Guard said the black 14-foot craft answered the description of one believed to have been released from the Verano before it disappeared beneath the surface. With a pair of 70s and a life preserver still attached, the dinghy was towed to shore by a Coast Guard motor life boat.

A PB plane searching the area for possible survivors earlier spotted the yacht's cabin top in the same vicinity, but the lifeboat was unable to tow it in. Other bits of the Verano wrecked by waves were found floating in the lake.

The Coast Guard, meanwhile, identified two additional crew members from information received from Chicago, the yacht's home base. Herbst said the engineer was Fred Stenning and the cook was Ben Murakoshi.

Maynard Dowell, Park Ridge, Ill., manufacturer who owned the 92-foot vessel, previously had identified the captain as Chester Granath of Chicago, an employee of Dowell's and described as an experienced skipper.

Dowell said he was sending the yacht, which he valued at $75,000, to Holland, Mich., for repairs of a leak along the keel.

Spy Ring Working
Against U.S. Broken
Up In German ZoneSTUTTART, GERMANY, Friday,
Aug. 30 (AP)—U. S. intelligence authorities said last night that they had broken up a ring of German spies suspected of operating in the American occupation zone as undercover agents for Soviet Russia.

There were hints of a possible large-scale German subversive movement against the U. S. army.

Counter-intelligence corps officers at Stuttgart and at U. S. army headquarters in Frankfurt revealed that the suspected spy ring was exposed after it had engaged in undercover activities for several months. Fifteen Germans were arrested.

Members of the ring were said to belong to a secret German organization known as "Free Germany."

This was the first time the existence of such an organization had been revealed.

Agents refused to discuss the nature or activities of the "Free Germany" group and whether it was large or small. They gave indications, however, that the arrested Germans were only members of a large organization.

The ring leader was said to be a man named Walter Kazmarek.

"The leader was believed to be connected with Russian agents in the zone. He declared in a statement that he had received some money some time ago," a high intelligence officer at U. S. Army headquarters said.

The ring of Germans was broken up "two or three months ago," it was revealed by agents at Stuttgart.

The Germans were arrested after months of investigation of the secret undercover activities of the ring, the agents said.

Allegedly the Germans had maintained contact with Russian agents and sent representatives to the Russian zone of Germany.

Intelligence officers at U. S. Army headquarters said Kazmarek confessed he had received 5,000 marks from Russian repatriation officers.

"He alleged that he reported troop movements in the Frankfurt area some months ago," the officers declared.

The agents said the counter-intelligence corps had recorded a speech in which Kazmarek had declared: "We support the Soviet policy fully."

Madison, Wis., Aug. 29. (AP)—John Stuart Curry, one of the best known writers whose paintings, galleries and peoples of the world, died today at 48 after a heart attack. He had been ill two weeks.

The death of Curry, artist in residence at the University of Wisconsin since 1936, following that of Grant Wood, leaves only Missouri's Thomas Hart Benton of the trio whose work raised storms of critical conflict as violent as their canvas portrayals.

Curry, born on a Kansas farm, said that he never had escaped the impressio of overwhelming, elemental force gained in his childhood from sun-blighted prairies, disaster-hounded people and sudden storms. The destructive forces of nature lurked always in his pictures of rural life and the fierceness of his style influenced his historical murals and circus studies, in which latter he earned a reputation as the most poetic painter since Albert Ryder. To obtain the proper background, Curry traveled with the Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey Circus in 1932.

After entering the Chicago Art Institute in 1917 and attending two years, Curry was lured to New York by the prospect of magazine illustrating. This venture was not a happy one and he went abroad to study draughtsmanship. After a winter in Paris, he returned to Kansas, where he shortly produced "Baptism in Kansas," which, with other canvases in the same vein, brought him international acclaim.

Curry served as a private in World War One. In the second World War he was commissioned to prepare series of paintings portraying the training of army medical corporals. For this work he was stationed at Camp Barkely, Tex.

Third Atomic Test
Booked For Spring
May Be Called Off

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—Cancellation of the third atom bomb test planned for next spring is a distinct possibility, it was learned today.

The Navy strongly favors "Test Charlie" to supplement information gained from the two tests held last month at Bikini, a spokesman for "Operations Crossroads" told a reporter today. The fate of the third test will be determined by the joint chiefs of staff, he said, adding its prospects look "grim."

Original plans for the joint Army-Navy operation called for a bomb burst in the air over a target fleet, a second one just below the surface and a third several thousand feet down. The first two were carried out at Bikini.

Three main obstacles to the last test have arisen: (1) Scientists borrowed from their laboratories want to resume their research work on atomic fission, (2) The presidential order slicing $650,000,000 from the Navy budget means a tightening of the purse strings, and (3) Technical personnel, eligible for discharge, who volunteered to stay for the first and second tests will be long gone by next spring.

WORST PINCH
IS PREDICTEDFACTORY CLOSINGS
FORESEEN, CROPS
TO BE HELD UP

BY BRACK CURRY
Washington, Aug. 29. (AP)—The nation "is facing the greatest transportation crisis in 20 years," ODT Director J. Monroe Johnson said today.

The real pinch will begin about October 15 and continue until May, he said, with such results as:

1. Some factories will be compelled to close down or reduce operations during periods of the fall and winter;

2. The movement of crops will be strung out over a longer-than-usual period. The railroads still will be moving this year's wheat crop when the next crop ripens.

Johnson said in an interview that "The railroads simply cannot handle all the traffic which will be offered them during the coming months. So when the storage facilities of industrial plants are filled, they'll just have to close down or curtail operations until they can move their goods."

Railroads Jammed
Normally, Johnson said, the peak demand for railroad freight cars begins about October 15 and continues several weeks. But this year, he said, the high demand will continue well into next year.

"We shall be in a terrible fix in transportation until May," the ODT director said.

"Right now the railroads are hauling more freight than at any time during the war. For the week ended July 30, the carloading figure was over 921,000, the highest weekly loading since the week ended Oct. 12, 1941."

But demand will reach 1,000,000 cars a week by fall, Johnson said, with the result that 75,000 cars of freight will back up each week for an indefinite period.

Johnson attributes this high traffic demand to mounting industrial production, the movement of bumper food crops, and the stockpiling of winter supplies such as

Oust Man Who Sent
Meat Ceilings Up,
Says Head Of UAW

Detroit, Aug. 29 (AP)—Richard T. Leonard, director of the UAW's PAC department, today called upon President Truman and all Michigan congressmen to act for the removal of Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson "for overruling OPA on a raise in meat prices."

"I am sure that our congressmen serving Michigan will realize that these increased boosts on beef and pork ordered by Secretary Anderson will raid the pockets of Michigan workers to a tremendous tune," Leonard said in a statement.

Leonard said the increases on beef and pork will "cost the American consumer $850,000,000 over the coming 12-month period."

"Mr. Anderson has repeatedly shown he has absolutely no regard for the welfare of the American worker," Leonard went on. "He has developed into the No. 1 front for meat profiteers in the meat industry, unless a stop is put to Mr. Anderson's capitation on the price front, a chaotic condition will exist on the work front."

DELTA WELFARE COST $48,624

Case Load Is Above That Of Year Ago, July Report Shows

Welfare expenditures for the month of July, 1946, totaled $48,624.47 for Delta county, an increase of $7,102.50 above July last year, according to a report released yesterday by A. M. Gilbert, director of the Delta county social welfare board.

The number of persons receiving old age assistance, aid to dependent children, and direct relief has increased since July a year ago. Last month there were 853 old age assistance, 174 aid to dependent children, and 308 direct relief cases in the county, it was reported. These figures compare with 819, 136 and 247 respectively, one year ago. There was no increase in the number of aid to the blind cases.

Old age assistance, aid to dependent children and aid to the blind are financed equally by state and federal funds.

The number of direct relief cases increased from 247 one year to 308 in July of this year, with a corresponding increase in cost from $4,786.67 in July, 1945, to $6,908.40 this past month. Direct relief financed by state and county funds.

Twenty-three persons were being cared for at the county infirmary, which was less than a year ago. County welfare and hospital, and administrative costs were approximately the same as those for July last year. These costs are financed wholly by county funds.

4-H Achievement Booth Champs Named At Fair

Four boys and four girls, the eight outstanding 4-H Club members in the Upper Peninsula based on their project work record and their achievement booths exhibited at the U. P. State Fair, were named yesterday by the judges.

The awards to the winners will be an educational trip, the boys to one destination and the girls to another, with each tour to cost a total of approximately $200. They will be accompanied by adult 4-H Club leaders.

Winners in the achievement booth contest, in which the judges were guided by the record of the participants in home economics projects and the appearance of their booths in the exhibition building, were as follows:

Evelyn Mickelson, Crystal Falls, Iron county; Donna Dean Bouley, North Lake, Marquette county; Pat Stevens, Iron Mountain, Dickinson county; Alice Laakso, Chatham, Alger county.

The time and destination of the trip for the girls has not yet been decided, but it will probably be a motor trip to Lower Michigan or to Chicago, said Miss Edith Johnson, Marquette, assistant state club leader.

The three dairy club boys who won on the basis of their achievement booth in the dairy cattle barn and the Guernsey calf they entered are as follows:

Alex Cottle, Pickford, Chippewa county, a junior in the Pickford high school and a dairy club member for five years; Robert Buzza, Metropolitan, Dickinson county, who has the grand champion purebred Guernsey animal in the open show and has been in dairy club work for five years; Norman Peterson, 16, of Crystal Falls, who has been a dairy club member for six years, in 4-H work for eight years.

Orville Walker, Marquette, assistant state club leader, said it is expected that the educational trip for the boys will be to the dairy cattle congress to be held at Waterloo, Iowa.

Fourth achievement booth winner was Edmund Popour of Cooks, Schoolcraft county, whose record in potato club work was held to be outstanding among 4-H potato club members in the Upper Peninsula. A graduate of the Cooks high school last spring, Edmund has been in potato club work for four years, in 4-H six years, and in the past four years has grown 14 acres of potatoes. He has also participated in other projects and has been a local leader for three years.

About 100 club boys and girls and 60 dairy animals owned by dairy club members participated in the 4-H Club parade in front of the grandstand yesterday afternoon.

Parade winners by counties were Dickinson first, Iron second, Delta third, and Chippewa fourth. The first three received sets of electric clippers for use in grooming cattle, and the fourth award was $10.

In the cattle showmanship contest the champion was announced as Elroy Mattson of Metropolitan, Dickinson county, who has been in club work for 10 years. Second place was won by Gerald Wickman, also of Metropolitan.

Vets Are Finding Information Booth At Fair Helpful

Veterans visiting the Upper Peninsula State Fair have no trouble getting information about the G. I. Bill of Rights, on-the-job training, job opportunities in this locality, the state's vocational rehabilitation program and dozens of other services for ex-military and naval men and women.

The Veterans' Information Center booth in the exhibition building has been attracting large number of veterans, especially those from communities where little of this information is easily obtainable.

On hand at the booth to answer questions regarding the organizations and services they represent are Thomas Northey and Maybelle DuMez of the Michigan Vocational Rehabilitation service, Marquette; Tom Beaton and Norman Berg of the regional state office of Veterans' Affairs, which coordinates the activities of the various federal, state and community social and welfare agencies that provide services for veterans; James Damitz and C. Elmer Olson of the U. S. Employment Service; Ralph Olson of the American Legion, Cloverland Post 82.

These organizations with the American Red Cross, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Am-Vets, Disabled American Veterans and others have cooperated to acquaint interested veterans with the information they require about their services.

A wealth of literature dealing with these organizations is available to veterans and other Fair visitors.

PENINSULA ART SEEN AT FAIR

Work Of More Painters
Than Ever Before
Is On Display

One department at this year's Upper Peninsula State Fair which appears not to have suffered from the war enforced interruption in the annual series of expositions is the art department. More individual artists than in any previous year have entered their work. Particularly gratifying is the fact that entries are from almost all sections of the peninsula. The department is located on the third floor of the main exhibit building.

With the rise in number of entries has come a noticeable bettering of the quality of work shown that is healthy. Also encouraging for the future is the appearance for the first time of the work of several promising young artists.

Some of the examples of work of the younger artists are to be seen in the inner room of the department where a collection of pen, pencil and wash portraits and imaginative drawings are displayed. They are entered by an I. on Mountain young man who plans to begin study at the Art Institute in Chicago this fall. Nearby is a series of pencil portraits of U. S. Presidents which represent a great deal of work by a Delta county boy.

Alden Steck of Calumet is showing a group of large water colors which includes a striking light-house number and a scene of company houses, such as have been a characteristic sight of the Copper country.

Among the Marquette artists. Dorothy Broth Liberty has entered two oils, a portrait of her husband and a still life of peonies; Betty Pearl Beeby a group in combined media which include a caricature of Sikorsky and a portrait of a little girl; David Ball of the Branch Prison sent a self-portrait, an oil of his wife and an oil of the prison.

Other communities represented include Munising, Negaunee, Gladstone, Danforth and the usual large group from Escanaba.

In addition to the two exhibits, "What Is Modern Art?" and "American Painting" there is also included an exhibit planned to aid peninsula artists in securing materials for their work. This exhibit for the artists includes catalogues from some of the leading supply firms. There are also color cards, paper samples and booklets. They were assembled and are being shown in furtherance of the department's main purposes, which are to promote interest in art and to encourage artists of the peninsula.

Mrs. Emil Kronquist of Negaunee is judge of the entries in the art department. Officials in charge of the department are Mrs. Timothy M. Cassidy, superintendent, Mrs. Victor Powers and Mrs. Stack Smith, assistant superintendents.

Menominee County Airport Approved

Menominee, Mich. — The new Menominee county airport at Park avenue and County Road 577 has passed final inspection of the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the federal agency will turn the airfield over to the county within the next 10 days or two weeks.

The airport was given official approval yesterday by William P. Franze, chief of the Chicago CAA regional construction branch, who spent the day here making final inspection. He went over the ground with CAA Resident Engineer Richard Milholland and Contractor C. G. Bridges of Escanaba, who completed the project, and left instructions on minor work to be finished. Franze was accompanied here by John R. Mercer of the airways engineering division of the CAA with headquarters in Washington.

The north end of the airport, where buildings of the Bridges Construction company stand, will be seeded and the premises generally cleaned up before it is turned back to the county, which must maintain it and operate it under CAA regulations.

As far as the CAA is concerned, the airport may be thrown open to public use at any time but after a conference between Franze and Mercer and Mayor Otto R. Eickmeyer, chairman of the county board's airport committee, Chairman George Barstow and Supt. Edward J. Pearce of the Menominee county road commission, it was indicated that no flying is likely to be permitted on the airport until mid-October or early November.

COMDR. GLAZA RETIRES

Calumet—Commander Anthony F. Glaza, veteran member of the United States Coast Guard and widely known in Lake Michigan shipping circles, accompanied by Mrs. Glaza, is a Copper Country visitor, making a leisurely trip through old haunts along the south shore of Lake Superior while he is on orders awaiting retirement on November 1.

Com. Glaza temporarily makes his home in Wesley Springs, Ill., but is undecided where he will locate after his retirement. In any event, he plans to return to the Copper Country each summer, and it probably would be no great surprise to himself and family if he elects to establish a home where he has heard the swish of the inland sea almost continually since he was 19 years of age.

An Economic Mess

THE federal government's program of economic control is in a mess and one major reason for it is the palpable lack of unity within the administration.

The Office of Price Administration, the OPA decontrol board and the Secretary of Agriculture all are appointees of President Truman. Naturally the nation expects that the three federal agencies would operate in harmony to attain a common objective.

The OPA announced several days ago that meat prices would be rolled back to the June 30 levels, an announcement made apparently without consulting the secretary of agriculture who has the congressional authority to fix meat prices. Yesterday Secretary Anderson announced that meat prices will be set at levels materially higher than the June 30 list. The OPA professed complete surprise at the secretary's announcement.

OPA boss, Paul Porter, said in New York this week that his agency will insist upon restoration of price ceilings to milk and dairy products. This pronouncement was immediately followed with a sharp statement from Roy L. Thompson, chairman of the OPA decontrol board, that the decision on dairy price ceilings is up to the decontrol board and that no restoration of ceilings will be made unless "prices have risen unreasonably."

All of these contradictory statements from high officials within the national administration serve only to confuse the public—and to convince the American people that the left hand of the government doesn't know what the right hand is doing.

Bully for Halsey

DURING the last few years, the Washington government and many Americans have been bending over backward to please the Russians. We have been trying to do our part to create a better understanding between the two nations, but the Moscow government has not bothered about meeting us half way. As a result of our kow-towing to the Kremlin, Russia has gained much prestige.

Presence of ships of the American navy in the eastern Mediterranean waters of late has drawn sharp criticism from the Communist newspapers. Adm. William F. "Bull" Halsey has not been in the least worried about how the Russians feel about it, however. The outspoken admiral said that U. S. navy will go anywhere on the high seas, which it has a perfect right to do.

Perhaps, this is the kind of talk the Russians can understand. There is the possibility that they have mistaken our kindness in the past as evidence of weakness.

Non-Essential Building

THE construction of huge new race tracks and horse stables in New Jersey is an illustration of why the national housing program has lagged so far behind established quotas.

The situation in New Jersey is not unique. It is an example of what has happened all over America. Non-housing construction has mushroomed, much of it at the expense of the more vitally important housing program. Shortages of lumber, bricks, cement and numerous other construction commodities, all needed for home building, are slowing up the housing program but these commodities are consumed in considerable quantities in non-essential construction. These commercial enterprises are in far better position financially to compete for scarce items than the home building industry. When a war veteran seeking to build a new home enters into competition with a race track for the limited supplies of building materials the veteran is certain to come out second best.

New controls have been established in the hope of remedying the situation, but it is still too early to determine whether the new regulations will be workable. It is more difficult to conceal the construction of a huge race track than it is to conceal an illegal sale of hardwood flooring by a retail lumberman.

Significant Poll

THE results of one of the latest of those seemingly endless opinion polls reached, it seems to us, a new high in interest while revealing what is perhaps a new low in intelligence. The poll was that conducted by Donald V. McGranahan, Harvard University psychologist, among German youth.

Asking the question, "Who is the greatest man in world history?", Mr. McGranahan received some curious answers.

Of the 391 German boys and girls interviewed in Friedberg and Offenbach, 63 cast votes for Franklin D. Roosevelt and eight for Harry S. Truman—results which may reasonably be supposed to have some bearing on Germany's present position as a conquered foe of the United States. But look for a moment at the other choices: Bismarck (50), Frederick the Great (49), Hitler (19), Eisenhower (14), Charlemagne (8), Caesar (6), Alexander the Great (3), and Napoleon (3).

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Childs

and that therefore he got what he deserved.

But a second look, now that the passions of the moment have cooled, shows that this was an oversimplification and perhaps, from the point of view of America's long-time future, a dangerous oversimplification. A fact generally overlooked is that Villaroel had begun to try to raise the living standards of the miserable Indians who dig in Bolivia's tin mines.

—WAS CONSCIENTIOUS MAN—

Laurence Duggan, formerly head of the Latin-American division in the state department, has this to say in the current issue of the Inter-American:

"Villaroel himself was a conscientious man with a puritanical determination to elevate national morals. He wanted to give land to the Indians and to shake the country loose from the political vise of the tin magnates."

As Duggan, who is badly needed in a policy-making role in Washington, makes clear, Villaroel was involved with dubious intrigues. Among his military confederates were men who wanted to impose the Fascist pattern on Bolivia. They used familiar weapons of violence to achieve their ends.

The fact remains, however, that in feudal Bolivia they took steps to advance the lot of the poorest and most oppressed class. Housing projects were accelerated. Laws were adopted to prevent the companies from crushing the miners' struggling trade unions. Wage boards were created to hear requests for higher wages. While freedom of expression was suppressed for a time, newspapers in the months preceding the recent revolution printed violent attacks on the government.

Was the revolution, then, a triumph of liberal-progressive forces over Fascism? Ernest Galarza, until recently head of the labor division of the Pan-American Union, says no. Galarza visited Bolivia during the Villaroel regime and studied the reform measures introduced by the late president.

Resigning his position with the Pan-American Union to be free to express his views on Bolivia, Galarza points out that today representatives of the all-powerful tin cartel are returning to power in Bolivia. He points to key positions being filled by men who were agents for the tin trust which has customarily held the country in subjection.

For most of us, the Bolivian revolution may seem to have been just another of those Latin-American upsets: a little bloodshed. A new regime, a new set of unpronounceable names. Why should we be bothered about it?

—CHANGE TAKING PLACE—

There is a good answer to that question and we here in North America had better think about it. In Bolivia on one side of the world, in Iran on the other side—everywhere—change is taking place. The feudal pattern, where a few very rich men run things to suit themselves, is breaking up. With the radio, the airplane, change was bound to come.

The great danger is that we in the United States will be identified, in the minds of those who are now moving out of the primitive past, with the tiny minority which is trying to prevent the change from happening. We will seem always to be lined up with the tight little clique that wants to keep things just as they are. To put it more bluntly, the United States will be aligned with reaction and injustice.

It so happens that Bolivia furnishes an excellent example of our failure to use our great bargaining power on the side of inevitable change.

During the war, the United States bought vast quantities of Bolivia's tin. In the foreign economic administration were officials who believed that, in contracts with Bolivian tin magnates, we should set a condition of a little higher pay for pitifully underpaid Bolivian workers. Other officials said no. They argued this would be unwarranted interference with Bolivian affairs. They were charged with being close to the world tin cartel. Whatever the truth in this controversy, we did not include such a clause in the contracts. We failed to take a step that would have had favorable echoes throughout all South America.

The obvious political labels are not enough. In Iran, in Bolivia, wherever the great tide of change has set in, we must look behind the labels at what is actually happening.

Careful speakers and writers will distinguish between "in" and "into," thus: In designates location. Into designates movement.

Correct: The house stands in the wood. He is swimming in the river. She is busy in the kitchen.

Correct: He fell into the lake. They crossed into Canada. The ball rolled into the street. He threw a stone into the water.

Q. Why do we call our ten-cent piece a "dime"?—G. F.

A. Dime is a French word meaning, "the tenth part." Hence, originally, a tithe paid the church. The French pronounce it: deem. It comes from the Latin decem, "ten."

When the dollar was adopted in 1787 as the official U. S. monetary unit, the French word dime was borrowed as an apt and convenient name for the ten-cent piece.

It Won't Keep Him From Messing Things Up

Good Morning!

—By The Bugler

THE CHECK-OVER —Among the visitors from a distance attracted to Escanaba this week by the U. P. Fair are Miss Ellen Koll of Chicago and her mother, Mrs. Ernest Koll of Racine. They arrived late Sunday and will leave this morning.

It will be recalled that Miss Koll and her mother first came to Escanaba three years ago to purchase a violin from Jim Ashland, local violin maker, who was the subject of a feature story in metropolitan newspapers. Miss Koll plays the violin, and is continuing her studies at the Chicago Musical college. She and her mother planned to return to Escanaba to have the Ashland violin checked over by its maker, but the trip was delayed until Mrs. Koll recovered from an accident. Then it was decided to come here during fair week, which they are both enjoying very much. They are renewing acquaintanceships, and were dinner guests one evening of Mrs. Charles Brandenberg.

SIDESHOW —Carnival concession operator, aged 60 or over, arguing with a group of young men in front of his stand: "Move along now. I don't care if you are veterans—I'm a veteran myself."

THE LOST TOUCH —On the second floor of the exhibition building at the fair grounds this week there is a department devoted to a display of home-prepared foods. There are rolls, breads, pastries, cakes, and canned goods of several varieties. But the display is, if anything, one of the smallest on record at the U. P. State Fair, and those in charge of that department are wondering why.

Perhaps the most obvious answer is that there has been no fair for four years and women have gotten out of the habit of entering samples of their culinary art, or their ability at preserving foods.

Another reason might be that there is a shortage of sugar and shortening—but this would not account for the slim showing on the shelves devoted to display of canned goods.

Well, what is the real reason? Is it because the American woman has forgotten how to bake a pie or mother baked? Put up canned goods as her mother did before her?

Where are the jars of dill pickles and pickled herring, chow-chow and mustard pickles? Where are the crusty rolls, the brown-topped pies with their insides oozing through the flaky crust, the devilish cakes with their outcrops of chocolate frosting?

Where, in fact, are the women who prepare such mouth-watering food?

THE SANDWICH ERA —Perhaps the average American woman who once prided herself on her ability to stir up a cake with one hand and can a bushel of peaches with the other is no more. She may have disappeared with the wood-fired range and the pitcher pump with its lip hanging over the kitchen "zinc."

Her place may have been taken by the modern woman whose idea of cooking is a few slices of cold meat from the corner grocery, and a canned peach half on a lettuce leaf. The "modern woman" may be that magazine ad counterpane who has every convenience and no heart for staining the spotless

INTO THE PAST

10 Years Ago—1936

Marquette, Mich. — Deep Run Queen, owned by H. J. Rushton of Escanaba, was withdrawn from today's races at the Marquette county fair after being injured in the first heat of the opening event today.

Munising—J. H. Husby, 68, of Duluth, Minn., deckhand on the coal boat, A. C. MacBeth, was instantly killed here tonight when he touched a bare wire carrying 4,200 volts of electricity.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sundman, Escanaba route one, are the parents of a son, weighing eight and a quarter pounds, born Aug. 28 at the Alvina Bucholtz maternity home.

Marvin Lied, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lied, was the honored guest at a delightful party given him yesterday afternoon at his home, 807 Minnesota avenue, Gladstone, the occasion being his tenth birthday anniversary.

20 Years Ago—1926

WRAC, the Escanaba radio broadcasting station, will be on the air for the first time this season Wednesday night at 6:30 o'clock, it was announced yesterday by Ervin S. Hiltz, chief engineer.

Chicago—A pretty, 17-year-old Italian-haired girl from the rural district of Green Bay, Wis., tonight became the central figure in a police investigation of a car-barn bandit's raid here last night in which seven men were shot, two fatally.

Henry Marenger of Flat Rock was taken to St. Francis hospital at an early hour Monday morning after having been kicked in the face by a horse.

A daughter was born Saturday, Aug. 28, to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moran of Chicago, former residents of Escanaba.

Joel Olson returned to Escanaba Sunday after spending the summer sailing on the J. P. Walsh, an ore carrier.

enamel stove and counter tops with home made food.

SHOWING THEM UP —Remarkable part of the whole picture is that 4-H Club girls of the Upper Peninsula are exhibiting some of the finest examples of canned goods and cooking ever to be seen at the fair. As a part of their food preparation and canning projects work they have turned out exhibits which would take many prizes if entered in the department upstairs.

Answer to the question why the daughters are showing up their mothers at the fair may be found in organization. The girls are members of 4-H Clubs which meet regularly, where the girls compete with each other in efforts to win honors for themselves and their clubs and their counties. This spirit of competition is lacking among the mothers, who probably are just as good, if not better, cooks than their daughters.

IN YEARS TO COME —Now that peace-time is here and the U. P. State Fair will get back on schedule as an annual event, folks in the Upper Peninsula may be expected to take a greater interest in competing for fair premiums. When shortages are no more, perhaps the cakes and pies and rolls will come back in all their appetizing glory.

Through the 4-H Club program the girls from Upper Peninsula farms will be helped in learning food preparation—and they will have justifiable pride in the products of their kitchens. And because as girls they have entered exhibits in the 4-H section at the fair, they will continue to display

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, his column will be written by several distinguished guest columnists—Today, by Henry J. Kaiser, the famous West Coast industrialist.)

BY HENRY J. KAISER

San Francisco—Almost exactly a year ago to the day, I took advantage of Drew Pearson's first offer to ride free on the Merry-Go-Round. He is vacationing again. Drew may need vacations, but our democracy cannot afford one.

Some people tell me we're not going to recover. They say we're headed toward inevitable disaster; that we're well on our way to the dogs, and that nothing short of a miracle can save mankind from oblivion. I don't believe it. I don't think the people of the United States believe it. Our way of life will stand any test of competitive comparison. So, let's think about Drew's slogan — to work, fight, give, to make democracy live!

How about taking a look at the so-called "Horrible" things that are happening to us. Some say, "tomorrow we're going to have inflation. Tomorrow either the Communists or the Fascists are going to take over. Tomorrow there will be no church because we have turned our faces from Christianity. And worst of all—tomorrow there will be war."

I do not believe a word of it. It is like saying we've suddenly decided to become sheep, not men.

If I were to believe what I hear, there would be no people in this world any more. There would be only labels—an endless, insulating array of labels. In the last few years, my friends, the men with whom I work, my competitors, all the millions of our country and the world have supposedly sacrificed their identity and become liberals or reactionaries, Communists or Fascists, labor or management, Democrats or Republicans, dark-skinned or white, and I do not like it.

—CONFUSED THINKING

I wonder if we're not guilty of the most confused thinking the world has ever seen. It is high time we were realizing that we are still men, not labels, capable of setting goals and achieving them; willing to fight for the things in which we believe—not with treacherous weapons, but with the vitality of our own beliefs and the strength of our purpose.

Not long ago we contacted the steel industrialists of the east in a search for sheet steel. In the process we got irritated and we think they did, too. We wanted sheet steel to build automobiles. They said they couldn't give it to us. We thought we knew why. We didn't like the reasons. But they didn't call us anarchists and we didn't call them fascists. Maybe we thought they believed in princes of privilege. They didn't give us the sheet steel we wanted; we got it another way. Our production is continuing on its way without the world falling about our ears.

Trouble is only opportunity in work clothes. Take an example from our own experience. The west has always needed a steel industry. In 1942 we built Fontana Steel mill, in the face of obstacles which, in terms of tomorrow, couldn't be overcome. But it was built for war production with the money we were forced to borrow because no one else would build it. When the war ended, the west needed the continued operation of that mill. We were told Fontana was hopeless—a steel industry in California would be a "dead duck." Competitively it couldn't be done. We couldn't continue to operate. Our fixed charges would eat us up.

—WEST NEEDS STEEL—

Close down? Hardly. The west had to have steel. And it has steel. Fontana is operating today, still bearing the tremendous burden of wartime evaluation. It is producing at as low an operating cost as any plant in the nation. It will continue to produce steel, because steel should be made in the west. I can't tell you how all its problems are going to meet. I only know that they will be met as they arise, and that the destiny of the west isn't to be sold short because there's trouble. Fontana cannot make its full contribution to the west when it is competitively throttled by the great steel corporation buying the government-owned Geneva Steel plant at twenty cents on the dollar and Fontana being forced to pay the government one hundred cents on the dollar of its war cost. Fontana now is a gateway releasing some of the great potential economic strength of our western country. It couldn't be done . . . but it's being done.

I have never had so much fun with anything as I have been having with the automobile business. They said we couldn't do it. But show windows all over the country are giving the answer to those who said we couldn't do it. The most friendly of critics said it would take us a year to turn our first cars off the assembly line. We did it in seven months. They said we couldn't get any steel to make the cars. We got some. Not enough, it's true. They said we couldn't get a staff together. But we did. They said the cars wouldn't run. The cars run. They said the car would be a crackpot job. They now know that it's the most practical and modern car being made anywhere.

A doctor claims he can add 10 years to life. And the bill for it probably would take off 20.

Whitehorse Is Place To Get Moose Steaks, Rich Reports

BY PHIL RICH

Whitehorse—If you'd like a moose steak, mooseburger "grilled rocky mountain goat chops," Whitehorse is the place to come to find them. They have 'em all. In the restaurant here, which stays open all night—you can find real wild meat—lots of it. Or you can have roast prime ribs of beef, broiled spring chicken or filet mignon.

But one traveler says don't trust the mignon. But the moose was good. The salad was scanty as are all salads in these parts, but they do have pretty good fruits and tasty soups. Canned milk is ever present. The "dinner" at the restaurant was $1.50 for the moose, beef, etc., but if you want to get down to cost only $1 and you can get a good breakfast with ham and eggs for 75c. And they have butter, too.

Whitehorse is supposed to have around a thousand people up there but you'd have to look hard. It seems to be about 600 with plenty of fairly good looking wooden hotels. Some of those who stayed in two of them said they were "good" and clean. Nothing fancy, though.

The Alcan. road which runs through town helps to make the city and may provide the next boom, although there are mines out of there now operating and employing some men, and also a few road men. They tell me there is to be some extension of the road to some other town nearby.

And speaking of the Alcan, I ran into a bus driver who tells me, finally, the low down on the Alaskan road. This is the way to go—and forget your own car: Take the Northern Alberta railroad at Edmonton to Dawson Creek, about 500 miles. (You can get a sleeper). Then it's bus to Whitehorse 919 miles and it takes three days on the P.Y.N. line, and you stop at Port Nelson and Watson lake. Then you go by bus out of Whitehorse to Fairbanks, stopping at Burwash, a distance of 606 miles and this takes two days. The fare is roughly $90 plus your room and board enroute. But I warn you the trip is a bit rugged. You can take a boat, if you want to wait for one, from Whitehorse to Dawson and then pick up a bus.

I finally bought a thermometer for $1 in Whitehorse and if I can keep it, hope to report the temperature which most people back home wish to know about. It was 45 today when we left Whitehorse.

Last night after looking over the city with its fairly good shops, we stopped in to see Otto Berg, who has lived up here all his life and runs a little photo studio. Otto was born and raised in the Northwest territory of Canada and has been from Yellowknife on the MacKenzie river to the Arctic.

Otto lived with the Eskimos near Aklavik and Tuk-Tuk. He's prospected, trapped, worked on the Canal oil survey and really been around. At one time he was a Canadian light heavyweight champ and he followed the fighting of Jimmy Adamick of Midland closely and wanted to know all about him.

For some 26 years he's had the photo bug and has some real good snaps of this country, its dogs, scenery, cabins, the midnight sun (which you can't see from Whitehorse), the moon and wildlife. He presented me with a couple of his favorites.

Otto tells me that the river here is called the Lewis, but that it is really the Yukon which has one of its sources in Lake Bennett. He says the Yukon proper runs down to Selkirk where it joins the Pelley, but that this is the "headwaters." He allows that the Yukon is about 2,600 miles long and a boat but not to compare to the MacKenzie which he has traveled, and says is more scenic.

He tells me stories he's heard from the old timers about the White Pass where some 3,000 horses died in lugging baggage in the big gold stampede of '98. Otto says that Whitehorse used to be quite a wild spot and that just before rationing 1,700 people bought $17,000 worth of whiskey in one day.

Now it's comparatively tame. No sale of intoxicants on Sunday. The hotels have a sign "No Dogs" and "Please wipe your feet when entering." The latter because of the mud streets and the former because of the large number of sled dogs around town.

The shops have one real original item: Gold nuggets mounted in ear-rings, pins, on spoon handles, etc. One chap says he'll guarantee his nuggets came from the Klondike and are genuine. They sell at all kinds of prices from $15 or $20 up.

On Sunday nights, observing the ban on all entertainment, there are no shows until midnight and then the whole town turns out. The cashier in the restaurant says this is the "night town." They must sleep all day and come out at night. That's why we stay open." A guy on the boat, who's going on to Dawson, says he's Howard Conouer of Cleveland O., and that he went to the University at Indiana with "Doc" W. S. Gilmore, editor of the Detroit News, but hasn't seen him since.

There are two or three parties on the passenger list from Michigan, including Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dauberger, Detroit; Mrs. Lucille E. Abel, Detroit; Mrs. Olivia A. Hummel, Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. John Svejcar of Royal Oak, Mich.

Another woman on the trip, whom I met just before we got to Whitehorse, was Kathryn Campbell, an editorial assistant working on the Chemical Engineering News with offices in Washington. She knows Leroy C. Stewart of the Dow Washington office and some other Dow officials and we talk about Dow and what a great and expanding industry it is. Nice to see someone who appreciates the Dow pioneering.

Australian Works to Publicize Flier

Sydney, Australia (P)—Austin Byrne, Australian railway employee and admirer of Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, has made a modest career of publicizing the airman who disappeared in 1935 on a flight from England to Australia.

Byrne has spent 18 years building a scale-model of the "Southern Cross," Kingsford-Smith's plane, and a globe-mounted shrine commemorating his flights, and traveling to exhibit them.

A few weeks ago Byrne returned with his models from the United States, where he estimates they helped sell $4,000,000 in bonds and savings bonds.

He hopes Australia will put them in the National Museum.

Hundreds Have TB Test At U. P. Fair

Hundreds of persons have received examination in the Michigan department of health mobile x-ray unit at the U. P. State Fair at Escanaba, one of four such units in the state which are operated for the purpose of finding cases of tuberculosis among the people.

To 2 p. m. yesterday at the exhibition building in the fair grounds a total of 632 persons had had their chests x-rayed, and John Gray, department representative, said he believed the number would increase by several hundred before the day ended. The examinations are free and take but a few minutes.

Within about 30 days after the examination the persons are advised by written report whether they have tuberculosis. Principal purpose of the examination is to screen out those who have the disease in its early stages and advise them to obtain medical treatment.

State Fair Highlights

BOOK SERVICE—Librarians of the Upper Peninsula are participating with the Michigan State Library at Lansing (an office is maintained in Marquette) in serving and informing the public through an exhibit at the U. P. State Fair this week. The librarians assisting at the exhibit yesterday was Miss Dena Babcock of the Menominee county library—which is the only county library in the state, incidentally. Today Miss Phyllis Rankin of the Peter White Library, Marquette, will be in charge, and on Saturday Miss Nancy Thomas and her staff of Carnegie Public Library in Escanaba will meet the public.

CARROT JUICE—The glibbest (or should it be most glib) barker at the fair grounds is the plastic and vitamin conscious gentleman at the front of the exhibition building, who can do more with one carrot and a squeeze than most barkers with three dancing girls. His line attracts not only prospective purchasers but those who like to hear him talk. Surrounding him are carrots, lemons, grapefruit, plastic cutters, scrapers, and people. After showing you how you can drain the last ounce of energy from a carrot, or squeeze the last lingering vitamin from a lemon, he will sell you the gadgets that do these tricks—with the help of a strong hand.

BIG CHIEF UGH!—Out in front the man with double-jointed chin was haranguing the crowd on the lasting benefits of "healing, anti-septic, soothing balm" which, while it will not take the place of your doctor will make his visits less frequent. Standing back of the canvas screen was an Indian in full regalia. The barker, out in front, having sold what purported to be his last box of balm, announced the beginning of the entertainment and began telling about the "big Indian chief with twenty-four eagle feathers in his bonnet—every one of them earned in battle." Before walking out from the Big Chief grinned sheepishly and rubbed a moccasin toe on the ground.

BRADLEY IS VISITOR—Congressman Fred Bradley and Mrs. Bradley were among the visitors at the U. P. fair here yesterday. The congressman praised the fair for its outstanding exhibits and the quality of the entertainment program. He will leave Escanaba today.

NEW DEPARTMENT—Upper Peninsula fur breeders may be recognized with the establishment of a fur bearing animal department at the fair in 1947. The growth of the fox, mink, chinchilla breeding industry indicates the desirability of recognizing this U. P. activity at the fair in future years.

NO AIR SHOW—The Navy Air Station at Glenview, Ill., was asked to send up a flight of naval planes for an air show during the U. P. fair, but decided to pass it up because of the lack of suitable emergency landing fields enroute. However, the commandant indicated that the planes at the base may have auxiliary air tanks next year and suggested another invitation at that time.

NO MOSQUITOES—It may have been the cold weather but more likely it is the effect of the DDT spraying of the fair buildings, but flies and mosquitoes are conspicuous by their absence at the fairgrounds. No one misses them in the least, either.

SMOKES FOR SLAVS—Prague, (P)—Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia has donated 1,000,000 Yugoslav cigarettes to workers at the Skoda and Tatra industrial plants, which he visited on his recent trip to Czechoslovakia.

New England's Charm Draws Many Travelers

By The Old AAA Traveler
Wherever you find antiquity you find charm, and wherever you can combine the patina of the years and great natural beauty—well, you have an unbeatable area for vacationing. And that's New England, especially in the Fall.

It matters very little where you travel in New England, you find that ineffable appeal of three centuries of background, almost indescribable beauty, and, above all, a climate that is superlative. From the time you strike Mohawk Trail on your way eastward through New York state until you brake your car to a stop above the blue waters of Eastport, Maine, or atop a New Hampshire mountain, you're never out of sight of beauty. Boston probably would be your base of operations, and rightly so, for there's no city in these United States with more genuine appeal to the visitor. Boston is superb, from its Common, where Emerson grazed his mother's cow, to old North Church, from whose belfry the signal lanterns flared, and from Bunker Hill to Cambridge and its Harvard University.

In time I'll tell you about New England's overall picture, but now, with Fall on us, let's talk about Boston, the Boston into which will travel hundreds of Michiganans through the late Fall months. Boston is only a matter of a couple of days driving out of Michigan, either through Canada into Buffalo and thence eastward, or to Buffalo by D. and C. steamer and then on your way over Mohawk Trail. The boat leg of the trip has a great advantage in that you have a full night of restful sleep in a comfortable bed and wake next morning about 300 miles on your way—plus, of course, the joys of

Admits Club Theft, Youth Held On Bail

Milwaukee, Wis.—Curtis Dahm, 19, of Escanaba, Mich., who has admitted participation in the theft of $1,700 from a safe at the Milwaukee Country club on Aug. 7, was arraigned in the district court Wednesday on larceny charges. Judge Thaddeus Pruss continued the case to Sept. 17 and set bail at $5,000.

Dahm told Sheriff George Hanley that he and an accomplice left here in an automobile stolen from Gordon Kuttner, 7817 N. Club circle. Fox Point, a member of the Country club, and went to Reno, Nev. At Reno, they bought three guns for $137 and spent hundreds on gambling and "night life," Dahm told the sheriff.

From Reno they went to Houston, Tex. Dahm said. Their free spending there attracted the attention of detectives, who hid in the youths' hotel room. Dahm walked into the trap but the other youth escaped, Dahm told the sheriff.

3 CONSENT TO CATTLE TESTS

Case Involving County Farmers Continued Here

A case involving three livestock owners, two of them from Delta county, who had been charged with obstructing the work of state veterinarians making tests for Bang's disease, was continued here this week by Justice of the Peace Henry Ranguette after a tacit agreement in court Wednesday that the farmers, Edward Zastrow and Louis Dubord, Bark River township, and Harry Zastrow, Harris township, would permit veterinarians to make tests on their cattle today.

Testimony by the cattle owners revealed that they had not given their consent to have the tests for the highly contagious Bang's disease made on their animals largely because of lack of faith in the efficacy of the tests and the fact that cattle found to have the disease were not then branded or otherwise set apart from the rest of the herd.

In effect, they stated that if the veterinarians had authority by law to make the tests for Bang's disease (contagious abortion) they could go ahead and make them but they evidently didn't think much of the idea.

Charges were filed against the trio by F. K. Hansen, Marquette, state department of agriculture veterinarian, under a state law which prohibits persons from unlawfully hindering, preventing or refusing to allow state veterinarians to conduct Bang's disease tests on cattle.

Baled Straw Builds Snug Cheap House

Omaha—Use of baled straw as bricks in housing construction has been proposed by Homer Greer, Omaha bus driver, who said he has applied for patents on his process. Greer would build the outside walls of houses with the 16-inch thick bales of straw, plastering them over with concrete. Conventional interior and roof would be used.

The Omahan described straw as a "near perfect insulator" and estimated he could raise the walls of a six-room house with a two-car garage adjoining for about $155. He said a house built this way in nearby Lincoln two years ago still is in excellent repair.

CHAMPION HERD—This Dickinson county herd of Holstein cattle won the title of best county herd, regardless of breed, at the Upper Peninsula State Fair in judging Wednesday.

TRAIN RIDES AT FAIR — A miniature train, which looks like the Rock Island's transcontinental streamliner, is a big attraction for the kiddies at the Upper Peninsula State Fair's midway this week. About fifteen children can ride on each circle trip of the Rock Island special, which is getting much patronage.

KNOX APPLAUDS 4-H ACTIVITIES

Favors New Dormitories At U. P. State Fairgrounds

Rep. Victor Knox, Sault Ste. Marie, a member of the State legislature appropriations committee, declared Wednesday that the cost of operating the Upper Peninsula State Fair is more than justified by the 4-H club program alone.

The 4-H club program is a fine thing for Upper Michigan boys and girls," Rep. Knox said. "It has offered educational opportunities for many youngsters and has contributed much to the development of the area."

The Soo legislator pointed out that the State of Michigan has never denied any request for 4-H club expenditures and predicted that the state will continue to promote and develop 4-H club activities.

Rep. Knox pledged his support for appropriations for construction of dormitories at the U. P. State Fair grounds to house 4-H club youth in the future. The board of managers of the fair has already made initial plans for such a request.

The quality of the educational exhibits at the fair was applauded by Rep. Knox, commenting that the exhibits, as well as the entertainment program at the fair, are better than ever this year.

Rep. Knox declared that Chippewa county will have several teams entered in the horse pulling contest Saturday and predicted that large numbers of Chippewa visitors will attend the fair over the weekend.

On arriving in Jerusalem, the Rev. Fr. Gherna will report to the Franciscan Monastery of the Holy Sepulchre, where he will receive his assignment. Accompanied by two Franciscan Fathers, the priest then will go into the Holy Land to fill his six-year missionary assignment for which he volunteered while in a monastery in New York. Children Must Go To School At Age Of Six Says Law

Munising—Pupils are now requested to attend school at the age of six years, it was announced yesterday by Superintendent of schools, H. A. Wood. This conforms with the newly enacted law making compulsory attendance in a public school for children reaching that age, he said.

In schools where no kindergarten is operated, children will be accepted for enrollment in the first grade, if their sixth birthday is on or before December 31, he said. In schools where there are kindergartens, children will be accepted for enrollment if their fifth birthday is on or before December 31. It is essential that pupils of these ages enroll at the beginning of the school term and not wait until their birthday occurs, Mr. Wood said.

Only three schools in Munising township operate a kindergarten. In the Washington school, children attend a kindergarten session in the morning, in the Mather school they attend in the forenoon and in the Lincoln school the kindergarten class meets in the afternoon.

Salvation Army Leader Got A Tip From 'Bum'

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

(AP) Newsfeatures Writer

Chicago—John J. Allan, first native-born American to rise to the rank of chief of staff of the International Salvation Army, once met a suave bum who told him: "Use your head and tongue, and you'll never have to work."

Allan used his head and tongue and he worked hard, too, and recently earned promotion to second in command of the organization engaged in religious and welfare activity in 97 countries.

He knows the Bowery

He enlightened the suave bum in 1910. Allan, then a young Salvation Army captain, was put in charge of the Bowery corps in New York. To gain first hand knowledge of conditions, he donned a battered hat, threadbare suit and tarnished shoes, and spent a week with derelicts.

He slept in flop houses. He accepted alms and, although he started out without a dime, he ended his fact-finding expedition with a net balance of $2.50. The suave bum took an interest, and advised him how to live comfortably without doing a lick of work.

His given name, John, is a constant reminder of the innumerable circumstances of his birth in 1887 in Hazelton, Penn. His Salvationist parents informed the physician who delivered him Dr. John Fruit, they couldn't pay him immediately.

"That's all right," the medic said. "Just name the boy after me."

Blew Own Horn at 7

Little John, at 7, began to blow a cornet. He practiced in the small flat where he lived in "Hogan's Alley" in Buffalo. Soon he was playing for street services.

Young toughs often ambushed him on the way home and blacked his eyes.

"Those," he says, "were the hard days of the Salvation Army."

During World War I, Allan was senior chaplain of the 7th Division in France. He was decorated with the Croix de Guerre for rescuing wounded in No Man's Land.

Allan remembered the need for entertainment at camps when the Selective Service began to function in 1940. He brought together representatives of his own and other organizations for conversations, and from these grew the USO.

Chief of 28,000 Officers

He was in his fifth year as commissioner in charge of 11 midwest states when he was appointed chief of staff by the Salvation Army's international leader, Gen. Albert Osborn, and summoned to London to direct 28,000 officers around the globe.

Gov. Goodland Doesn't Believe In Campaigning

By WILLARD R. SMITH
Madison, Wis., (NEA.)—Old and tough. That's Wisconsin's 83-year-old governor, Walter S. Goodland, retired newspaper publisher. The people of his state recently re-nominated him for a third two-year term in office. He will be 84 before the inauguration date. Already he is the oldest governor any state has had.

Goodland is exceedingly independent. The regular Republican organization which supported him two years ago endorsed another candidate in the primary this year. The endorsed candidate ran third. Goodland, who enjoys his reputation as "a tough old codger," was the people's choice. His entire campaign was confined to three radio speeches. The party organization swung behind him after his nomination, and his election appears assured in November.

"I think I have demonstrated conclusively it isn't necessary for a fellow to get out and tear his shirt campaigning. If his record is right," Goodland said. "I didn't do it two years ago, and I didn't do it this time. That ought to give the fellows who follow me something to think about."

The governor stands six feet three inches and weighs well over 200 pounds. He walks stooped far over, leaning heavily on a silver-handled cane, and progresses shakily on legs which were broken by a jump from a train in his youth.

"It is a fact that I can't run a hundred-yard dash in 10 seconds flat," he said. "But I do believe that is a requirement for an honest and successful administrator. I don't govern or make decisions with my legs."

"I can tell you one thing—I don't run away from any problem. I don't run away from organized gamblers and hoodlums. I don't run away from pressure groups or paid lobbyists or professional political manipulators."

Walter is no reformer. He started his first newspaper in the Michigan iron mining range and logging country more than 60 years ago. He hasn't forgotten the frontiersman's language, and frequently resorts to it. He likes a highball now and then. But he's been clean on gambling.

Wisconsin was the No. 1 sucker state when Goodland took office, paying federal taxes on more slot machines than any other state in the nation. The governor backed an anti-gambling bill in the legislature which allowed state authorities to enforce the law when local officers winked at violations.

Wisconsin, under his administration, has been purged of these

Excepting for 10 years spent in Michigan right after he was admitted to the bar and promptly turned newspaper editor, Goodland has lived his entire life in Wisconsin. For 33 years he was editor and publisher of a liberal-policied daily newspaper in Racine, one of this state's principal industrial cities. During that time he served as chairman of the city's water commission, mayor, and state senator. Then he sold his paper and retired to his farm nearby.

Four years later he was coaxed out of retirement to run for lieutenant governor, and served two terms, his office starting in 1930. When the governor-elect died in 1942 before taking office, Goodland became acting governor for a full term and was elected in his own right two years later.

How Worms Turned, And Turned Profit

El Centro, Calif. (AP)—Two young pilots who own a plane parlayed a practical joke into a profitable business.

Paul and Fred Baxter, formerly of San Bernardino, Calif., in Los Angeles last fall were approached by a man who represented himself as a prosperous Imperial Valley grower and invited them to come plant 1,200 acres of alfalfa for him, by airplane.

They went, and found that "nobody in the valley had ever heard of this hay fiasco," as Fred put it.

However, they liked the valley and got a job and two crop dusting. Then they branched out into crop planting, and recently contracted to sow a million and a half pounds of rice this year. The two are not the only aerial planters to operate in the valley, but they are the only ones to stay.

U. S. Keeps Control Of Pacific Bases Wrested From Japs

Washington, Aug. 29 (AP)—The United States plans to retain its exclusive custody of the Pacific bases wrested from the Japanese until a detailed plan for international administration of all mandated territory has been perfected, the state department said today.

Lincoln White, department press officer, told reporters the matter will be taken to the United Nations eventually but denied that this country plans to lay before the general assembly next month a plan for administration of the former Japanese territories by the proposed U. N. trusteeship council which is still to be created.

Senator Magnuson (D-Wash.) had reported such a plan. He said he understood the United States would ask U. N. for sole trusteeships next month over the former Japanese bases and mandated territory.

"End of the world" rumors can be traced back to earliest antiquity.

Arkansas' Mississippi county is the largest cotton-producing county in the world.

The Fireball is the Navy's first jet plane and the world's first jet and piston engine plane.

Goodland ponders: "I don't govern with my legs." He's seldom without a pipe.

"one-armed bandits," roulette wheels and dice tables.

Another outstanding accomplishment of his administration was to build up a veterans' rehabilitation fund by vetoing of Republican tax reduction legislation during the period of lush war profits.

Goodland proceeds without regard for future political prospects. He has experienced terrific battles with the Republican legislature. The 37-year-old Republican floor-leader of the state senate retreated from the governor's office under orders to "get out and stay out!" and with the words "young squirt" ringing in his ears.

He's tough, but not too tough. A pink and gray granite church at Ironwood, Mich., is something of a monument to him. He led the drive for funds which built this Episcopal edifice while he was a newspaper editor there. President Grover Cleveland appointed him postmaster of Ironwood about the same time.

A size 12 collar encompasses the Goodland neck. From the depths of it comes conversation in a low rumble which rises to a roar when he is aroused. The bags below his eyes are almost twice as big as the highly publicized pouches of comedian Fred Allen. They're almost twice as old, too. He is seldom without a pipe, and uses long, wooden "kitchen matches" to keep it burning.

Goodland is a native of Wisconsin. His father was a circuit judge who resigned from the bench at 35 and died two years later. The governor insists his father would have lived much longer if he had not retired.

Excepting for 10 years spent in Michigan right after he was admitted to the bar and promptly turned newspaper editor, Goodland has lived his entire life in Wisconsin. BURKE TO STAY ON STATE JOB

Attorney Reconsiders Resignation On Civil Service Commission

Lansing, Aug. 29 (AP)—George J. Burke, Ann Arbor attorney, today announced he would continue as a member of the state civil service commission after reconsidering his resignation submitted Saturday.

Burke's resignation from the merit body came after his name was included in a Democratic party fund-raising committee announced by party headquarters. He said the "no politics" rule imposed by the commission on state employees made it impossible for him to serve on the commission after his name had been linked publicly with partisan politics.

"My first impression was that serious harm had been done to the commission and Civil Service by an erroneous announcement that one of its members had accepted appointment on a committee to collect funds for political purposes," he declared.

He said he had reconsidered his action, as requested by both Governor Kelly and other commission members, after he was assured by E. Cyril Boyan, Democratic National Committeeman, that the release including his name was "erroneous."

Burke has been a member of the commission since its organization.

Former Prosecutor May Be Disbarred For Vice Bribery

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Aug. 29 (AP)—The Macomb County Bar association's grievance committee today sought the disbarment of Wilbur F. Held, former Macomb county prosecutor.

Macy E. Watkins, chairman of the grievance committee, prepared the charges which are based on Held's admission in open court that he took bribes from operators of bawdy houses and gambling places.

The petitions seeking Held's disbarment will be turned over to William T. Kelly, Mt. Clemens, representative of the State Bar of Michigan for the Seventh Congressional District.

Held resigned as prosecutor June 22 after he was sentenced by Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke, one-man grand juror, to serve 30 days for contempt as a result of his testimony. He then became a state witness against State Senator Ivan A. Johnston.

New Comet Will Be Bright After It Circles Sun

Cambridge, Mass.—As the new comet Jones travels it becomes brighter. It has increased from ninth magnitude at its discovery on Aug. 6 by Astronomer A. Jones of Timaru, New Zealand, to eighth magnitude.

At present it is too close to the sun and too faint to be seen with the naked eye, but when it travels south again in its return path from around the sun, it will be in the evening sky and chances for seeing it will be better. It is too soon to make predictions.

From an approximate position giving an uncertain nine-day arc, Dr. Leland E. Cunningham and Mrs. Martha Stahl of Berkeley, Calif., have computed parabolic elements for the comet and reported them to Harvard College Observatory. The day of perihelion time, when the orbit of the comet will be closest to the sun, is Oct. 4. It will be a little closer to the sun than Venus.

Red Cross Hopes To Beat Hurricanes To The Punch

By NEA Service
Washington—(NEA.)—Let the hurricanes blow. The Red Cross and the weather bureau are ready.

This is the heart of the hurricane season. If and when a big blow strikes, the Red Cross expects to be on the scene this time, before—not after.

Weather bureau reports on all possible threats of disaster stemming from weather conditions are being fed into Red Cross centers throughout the country so that advance preparations can be made. Minute-by-minute storm reports will let the Red Cross know where to set up its shelters, where to assign extra medical and nursing personnel and where to start evacuating residents.

Today the organization's 2300 chapters are prepared, on short notice, to house and feed 4,500,000 disaster victims in 40,000 shelters. Here is how it will work when the need arises:

The weather bureau picks up a storm report and watches it move slowly northward towards the southern coastal region of the United States. Observers, chartmen, and forecasters will "chaperone" its course and give it elaborate advance billing.

Danger Zone Alerted

Telephone reports of the storm's progress come night and day to disaster headquarters as the storm develops. These reports are relayed to area offices in Atlanta, Ga.; Alexandria, Va.; New York City; St. Louis, Mo.; and San Francisco, Calif. Area offices in the danger zone alert all chapters which in turn start making preparations and call out relief committees.

At the same time, trained disaster personnel are rushed from area and national headquarters to strategic points to get things started before the storm hits.

By the time the hurricane has arrived, so has the Red Cross.

The plan worked earlier this year when the Coast Guard and Navy in assault boats helped rush relief workers into flood areas along the Gulf coast. Even helicopters and "walkie-talkies" were used in some sectors.

Since 1880, there have been 158 major hurricanes and more than 600 floods within the U. S. In its growing battle against weather disasters, the weather bureau now maintains 550 airways stations and 250 off-airways stations. It has developed radar patterns of storms. A telemeter circuit has been set up between three hurricane forecast centers: Miami, Washington and Boston. The weather bureau even keeps track of areas that may be "ripe" for forest fires.

Ability of the Red Cross to move in more rapidly has been cutting disaster tolls during recent years. Death toll of the 1926-28 Florida hurricane was tremendous. In a storm just as violent last September, only four persons died. Volunteers, working 24 hours a day, succeeded in evacuating all residents from the Florida Keys in the storm's path. The new system is expected to provide even more complete advance information with which to plan relief work.

Nash Crew Quits; Won't Finish Cars To Ship Overseas

Detroit, Aug. 29 (AP)—A dispute over the production of automobiles for export kept the automotive plants of Nash-Kelvinator Corp. at Kenosha and Milwaukee, Wis., closed today, idling 11,000 production workers.

R. A. De Villeg Nash-Kelvinator vice-president in charge of manufacturing, asserted that a group of workers had refused to complete assemblies of right-hand drive cars for shipment into the foreign market because they wanted more vehicles made available to Nash employees.

The number of men who voluntarily left their jobs was not disclosed. In Milwaukee, however, Herbert Steffes, president of Local 76, United Automobile Workers (CIO), said their action was in protest against the dismissal of four employees who had refused to work on cars intended for export.

Asserting the union should have been consulted before the men were discharged, Steffes added that a strike vote will be taken by the union Saturday and that a stand would be taken at the same time "for a fair allotment of cars for purchase by employees."

Truman's Vacation Ends As Luck For Fishing Improves

Hamilton, Bermuda, Aug. 29 (AP)—President Truman hauled in eight shimmering fish today to bring the Bermuda phase of his vacation to a satisfactory end.

At dawn tomorrow, the presidential yacht Williamsburg hoists anchor for Washington, it is scheduled to dock there at 5 p. m. (CDT) Monday. A stop is planned at Hampton Roads at noon Sunday.

Setting out with rod and reel for the third time, he came to Bermuda, Mr. Truman saw his fishing luck take a turn for the better. He captured a winning team. He yielded top honors to a teammate, Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, who pulled in 17.

The chief executive's lineup claimed 40 fish weighing 75½ pounds. RFC director George E. Allen, who captained the second stringers, insisted on counting two sharks at 15 pounds. But that still gave his crew only 20 fish scaling 61½ pounds.

Republicans Will Seek Wide Support Of Campaign Fund

New Wax Derived
From Peat, Lignite

London—Wax extracted from lignite and peat, leaving the peat to be used as fuel, is a wartime research result in England. This wax, an ester, served as a substitute for montan wax which is important in the preparation of carbon paper and many polishes. It is useful also as an insulating material because of its hardness and dielectric properties.

About 5 per cent of lignite and 3 per cent to 12 per cent of dry peat can be recovered as crude wax, reports the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research. The wax content of peat depends upon the kind of vegetation from which it was formed. Peats derived from cottongrass, heather and sedges are relatively rich in wax.

HOTEL MEETING
HERE SEPT. 17Representative Group
Needed To Make Decision

A decision as to whether Gladstone shall or shall not proceed with the raising of a $126,000 fund for the construction of a new hotel here was delayed until Tuesday, Sept. 17, because of limited attendance at a meeting of the City Club this week.

It was felt by those present that a larger and more representative gathering should be on hand when so important a decision is to be made.

Efforts are to be made to have a highly representative attendance at the meeting Sept. 17. Personal letters will be used to invite local leaders and a committee composed of Seymour Lewis, Doug Mathison, Mike Goodman, Frank Stenak, Dr. George Kelley and J. J. Poffenberger to assist him in procuring the desired attendance.

Two hotel meetings have been held within the past month and attendance has been less than 20 at each.

A letter describing the contract terms for fund raising charged by the Hockenbury System was read and a discussion held on the situation generally.

There was a motion to delay any fund raising effort for a year but this lost when put to a vote and the September meeting was agreed upon.

A resolution authorizing the club secretary to send flowers to Julius A. Bredahl, former club secretary, now ill, was adopted.

Raising Funds For Kitchen Equipment

The first of a series of socials for Legionnaires and their invited guests is to be held Saturday evening at the Legion hall and will be in the nature of a dance.

Money raised from the series of parties is to be placed in a fund to purchase a range and other equipment for the kitchen of the hall.

Change Date Of Ski
Meeting To Sept. 11

Because of a conflicting event which is to be held at the clubhouse, the annual meeting of the Gladstone Ski club originally set for Wednesday, Sept. 4, will be held Wednesday, Sept. 11, instead, it was announced yesterday.

LEAD EXTENDED FOR CARDINALS

Three-Game Series With Giants Clean Sweep In 4-0 Shutout

St. Louis, Aug. 29 (AP)—Howie Pollet pitched the St. Louis Cardinals to a 2½ game lead in the National league race today with a brilliant five-hit shutout effort against the New York Giants, 4-0, for a clean sweep of the three-game series.

Routing the jinx that the Giants have held over the Cards all season, St. Louis rapped Dave Koslo for nine hits in handing him his 15th loss of the season.

Pollet never was in any serious trouble in registering his 17th win, sprinkling five singles over the route, never more than one in an inning.

Terry Moore's double following Red Schoendienst's third-inning single produced the first-run and a combination of a walk to Erv Dusak and Mark Marion's two-bagger made it 2-0 in the fourth. Whitey Kurowski's single, Dusak's double and a walk to Marion loaded the bases in the eighth before Clyde Klutts unloaded a two-run double to left field.

Outlook Still Good
For Trout Fishing

Lansing, Aug. 29 (AP)—Good trout fishing but only fair angling for other fish is in prospect for the Labor Day week-end, the State Conservation Department said today in its weekly report of fishing conditions.

Lakes and streams in the Upper Peninsula and the Northern and Central counties of the Lower Peninsula are producing good catches of trout because of the cold weather, the report said.

Inland lake fishing in the western counties of the Northern Peninsula has been declining but pan fish catches have been fairly good and walleye, weighing as much as eight pounds, have been taken in the Menominee River.

Elsewhere in the state fishing is spotty. Good catches of bluegills, sunfish and perch are being taken from lakes in Isabella, Clare, and Gladwin counties while bluegill fishing continues good in most south central and southeastern lakes.

Marine City, Mich., Aug. 29 (AP)—Joseph (Nab) Lisee, boat designer who built several Miss America-racing craft for Gar Wood, died at his home here early today after an illness of three months.

A ship's carpenter, master woodcraft worker and cabinet maker, Lisee never talked much about the famous racing boats he built. His explanation of how they evolved was simple:

"Mr. Wood tells me to build." Lisee and his wife, Margaret, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last May 26. He was born March 1, 1871, in Troy, N. Y. Besides the widow, the survivors include four sons and a daughter, all of Marine City.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderson

Charles Forsythe, MHSAA director, outlined his views on the U. P. all-star football game at the rules meeting in Kingsford the other day, explaining that the opposition of his office to the event was predicated upon fears that all-star games would spring up all over the state and that their management would fall into the hands of exploiters whose sole interest was commercialism. The fear undoubtedly is real, but the preventive method adopted by the state association was wrong.

The matter of all-star games probably will be threshed out again by the MHSAA council and it is likely that approval will be granted for all-star contests in an inning.

Milwaukee Brewers
Under Boston Wing

Milwaukee, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association, one of big minor league baseball's most valuable franchises, passed out of independent ownership today into the Boston National league club system.

Louis R. Perini, president of the Braves, announced at a press conference that he had purchased the controlling interest owned by Oscar Salenger, a Chicago attorney, leaving the Association without an independently owned club.

Perini indicated that he had paid Salenger about $270,000 for 321 of the club's 357 shares. The remaining shares are owned by three Milwaukeeans, Armin McGregor, an attorney; Chester Balard, a manufacturer; and Dudley Pierson, a sugar broker. Perini said he would be happy to have the latter retain their holdings if they wished.

Patty Berg Leads
In Quarter Finals

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 29 (AP)—Sturdy, red-headed Patty Berg, Minneapolis professional, led the parade of women golfers into the quarter-finals of the Women's National golf tournament today with a blazing 5 and 4 victory over professional Mary Moezel of Portland, Ore.

Tomorrow Patty must play husky Mrs. Jackie Pung, winner of numerous tournaments in Honolulu.

Other matches tomorrow will pit Spokane's Betty Jean Rucker, northwest amateur champion, against professional Betty Hicks, Long Beach, Calif.; Ellen Kieser, San Francisco amateur, against Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex.; professional, and Dot Kietly, Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Clara Candler Sherman, Pasadena, Calif., in an all-amateur contest.

The first bathrooms known to man were found in ruins of the Labyrinth in Greece, more than 4,000 years old.

They are all on the move and the flashing spoon or the bright plugs will tempt them as much as the summer baited worm and minnow hooks. Big bucktails and sucker minnows for muskies and northern pike will take their toll. But every fisherman must rig all his baits for floating and for sinking.

One day the fish will cruise deeply another day they will be feeding or basking in the now cooled rays of the sun. The reef you fished last summer may now find the fish feeding 50 to 200 feet out in deeper water. If ever a fisherman needs an assortment of both floating and sinking lures, it is right now until the ice begins to form on our lakes.

TIGERS CONQUER IN 14TH, 9 TO 8

Fourth Boston Pitcher Yields Winning Run In Long Battle

Boston, Aug. 29 (AP)—The Detroit Tigers made it two in a row for a series sweep today over the Boston Red Sox but they had to go 14 innings before they defeated the league leaders 9-8.

The winning run was made off Bob Klinger, fourth Boston pitcher.

The Tigers slugged out 18 hits, leaders in the attack being Kell with four singles and Greenberg with three base hits and four runs knocked home.

The Sox clouted 17 hits off three Tiger pitchers, one of them Ted Williams' 34th home run of the year.

Dave Ferriss, Boston's league-leading hurler, less than six innings, departing on the short end of a 7-4 score after yielding 11 hits.

Al Benton, the Tiger starter, also was clubbed freely, giving 11 blows before being driven out in the seventh.

Bobby Doerr's only hit of the game, a mighty triple to center off Virgil Trucks, drove home Williams who had walked to tie the score in the eighth at 8-8 and set the stage for the long overtime affair.

Brownies Next
Klinger and Paul (Dizzy) Trout, who appeared on the scene in the eighth, treated the crowd of 22,249 fans to a grade-A pitching duel the rest of the way.

The extra innings all were hitless until Boston bunched hits by Leon Culberson and Johnny Pesky to put men on second and third with one out in the 12th. Trout passed Williams purposely at that point and pulled out of the hole by forcing Doerr to bounce into a double play.

George Kell walked to open the Tiger 14th, took third on Doc Cramer's single to right and scored the winning run on Greenberg's grounder to Pesky that forced Cramer at second.

The sweep of the two-game set gave Detroit a season record of two wins in 11 games in Fenway Park and closed out the Tigers' last eastern trip at six wins against four defeats.

Detroit makes a leisurely trip to St. Louis tomorrow, where the Tigers open a two-game set with the Browns Saturday night.

YANKEES WHIP INDIANS, 9 TO 1

New York, Aug. 29 (AP)—New York clinched the season series with Cleveland today, walloping the Indians 9-1 behind Randy Gumpert's nine-hit pitching in the Tribe's final appearance of the season at the Yankee stadium.

Making it 12 victories in 20 starts against Cleveland, the Yanks banged starter Steve Gromek, who beat them five straight times last season, and Bob Lemon for 12 hits including Joe Gordon's 11th home run of the season with a man on in the sixth.

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Aug. 29 (AP)—Billy McCarthy, the old professor of the prize ring who once helped manage Max Schmeling, dropped in on Joe Louis' training session today and gave Tammy Mauriello just one slim chance against the Bomber in their title tussle Sept. 18.

Watching Joe go through a four-round drill, McCarthy was considerably impressed at the champion's condition. "He's carrying no extra weight on his legs or thighs at all," he pointed out, "and I remember he was exceptionally heavy there just before his fight with Billy Conn on June."

Ramsey Gets Week
To Quit Cardinals
Or Face Injunction

Pasadena, Calif., Aug. 29 (AP)—Owner Dan Topping of the New York Yankees of the All-America Football Conference said today he was giving Gerald Ramsey, former William and Mary star guard, "just one week" to quit the Chicago Cardinals of the National league and meet a contract to play with the Yankees.

The alternative, Topping said he wrote in a letter to Ramsey, will be an injunction suit.

Ramsey, who starred for the College All-Stars in their recent 16-0 victory over the Los Angeles Rams, is currently training with the Cardinals in their Wisconsin camp.

Colored Cotton
Grown In U. S.
But Fibers Poor

Washington—Terming reports that Russia is growing naturally red, green and brown cotton is "a bit exaggerated," Dr. H. W. Barre, head pathologist in charge of cotton and other fiber crops and diseases, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Plant Industry Station, Beltsville, Md., today said that brown and green strains of cotton have been grown in this country with no promise of commercial value.

Dr. Barre said that naturally colored cotton has poor fibers and fades rapidly when he appeared as a guest of Watson Davis, director of Science Service, on Adventures in Science heard over the Columbia network.

Denying that Russian claims asserting that the naturally colored fibers fade less than dyed cotton have been substantiated, Dr. Barre said that American observers have not been impressed with the Soviet's brown, red and green cotton.

"We are growing brown and green strains of cotton but they produce poor fiber, which fades rapidly and has no commercial value," the pathologist reported.

He said that American cotton requirements can be met by 10 varieties compared with more than 500 so-called varieties planted 10 to 15 years ago.

Dr. Barre urged universal standardization of American cotton production with every gin in the center of a one-variety community and with large areas standardized to the same variety.

BATTLING CUBS UPSET DODGERS

Chicago, Aug. 29 (AP)—Chicago's defending champion Cubs handed Brooklyn's pennant hopes a second straight jolt today by clawing out a 3-2 victory over the Dodgers in their final Western game of the season.

Phil Cavarretta's seventh inning single, following a walk to Johnny Ostrowski, a sacrifice and an infield out, sent the Brooks home 2½ games out of first place and assured the Cubs of their seventh straight success.

Hank Borowy was hit hard in the final stages and finally needed relief help from Ray (Pappy) Prim who hadn't pitched since May 19 to retire the last man in the ninth inning. The Bruins were 2½ games off the pace and six games back of the Dodgers at the close of the day's festivities.

In closing their last Western tour with a record of five victories and six defeats, the Brooklyn club came from behind to tie the score with two runs in the seventh inning on singles by Dixie Walker, Ed Stevens and Bruce Edwards and a costly error by Shortstop Bob Sturgeon. The Cubs scored single runs in the third and fifth.

CAA Pushes Study Of Aviation In Schools

By MARC J. PARSONS
New York, (NEA).—When junior goes back to school this fall, he may find an agreeable surprise in store for him—a course in aviation. In fact, he may even find aviation all mixed up in his history, science and other so-called liberal arts courses.

So far, almost half the 48 states are offering aviation courses in some of their high schools. Fewer than half the colleges so far have out-and-out aviation courses, but the number is growing constantly. In a few years, educators expect to add a liberal dosage of aviation to all courses from kindergarten and up.

New York State, which at this point is one of the leaders in the trend of aerodynamic education, is planning to inject the study of aviation into most science courses as well as in geography, economics, and other allied fields. For instance, for the first time primary courses in physics will place more emphasis on the study of internal combustion aviation engines and less on the steam engine. And studies will be made in the basic principles of nuclear energy and jet propulsion as far as the education level permits.

The Civil Aeronautics Administration is pushing the idea for all schools. Right now, the CAA boasts that 20 states have comprehensive aviation education programs, another expects to have such a program in operation in September and 12 others, plus Hawaii and Alaska, have asked for CAA aid in getting their classrooms air-minded.

The CAA's aid is well-planned aviation courses in both high and elementary schools of all 48 states. It has assigned education consultants to all its regional offices to help develop such programs, and to supply instructional material.

In addition, the government is offering surplus aeronautical equipment of all kinds to tax-supported or non-profit schools for the asking and upon payment of shipping expenses.

Sen. William F. Knowland, Rep., Calif., has been pushing the program in Congress. He charges that schools without aviation programs "are neglecting a phase of education that has urgent implications for the future."

"In this atomic age in which we live, the United States must keep ahead of the field in both civil and military aviation," he says. "There can be no resting on past laurels. Out of our schools will come those who will make sure that we maintain our place of leadership."

Most concerted non-governmental effort to inject aviation into the nation's schools and colleges recently was made here at the World Congress on Air Age Education, first such meeting to deal with the problem exclusively.

"From the classrooms and laboratories of our colleges and universities must come young men and young women soundly versed and trained to meet the technical needs of America's future progress in the air," Joseph T. Guertin, Jr., of the Aircraft Industries Association, told the Congress. "They must also be trained in the popular sense to understand and to be aware of all that aviation can promise in their lives."

Mrs. Pearl Wanamaker, president of the National Education Association, warned the Congress that "Whether we like it or not we are the last earth bound generation."

"Air age education is not all science, mathematics, industrial arts and mechanics. Its social implications are tremendous," she said.

"Air age education is not all science, mathematics, industrial arts and mechanics. Its social implications are tremendous," she said.

She recommended a teaching program that integrates air education with all other courses of instruction below college and junior college level, after which emphasis should be placed upon technical aspects of the field.

"Smoking" Boxcar Leaves 'Em Cold After Hot Chase

Frederick, Md. (P)—Problem in addition—17 plus 6 plus 5 plus 5 and you get absolutely nothing. When the fire department phone stopped ringing a voice at the other end said there was a burning boxcar on a Baltimore and Ohio mainline freight.

That was from Brunswick, 17 miles away. The voice said it first got the word from Harper's Ferry, W. Va., six miles up the line.

The smokestackers took off for Little Kill, five miles. They arrived just in time to see the freight thunder through. The freight was smoking all right.

They called Frederick Junction, five miles and told the towerman to flag the engineer.

The engineer was pretty disgusted. The "smoking" boxcar was a consignment of dry ice.
